Chapter Hotels Kicks Off Their First Chapter, The Montpellier

 Where: Bayshill Road, Montpellier, Cheltenham, United Kingdom, GL50 3AS

Some more news on the UK hotel front...that doesn't involve London.

The UK hotel brand, Chapter Hotels just opened their very first hotel on Monday in the small English town of Cheltenham. The hotel is located on the old site of the Grade II listed Hotel Kandinsk. The renovation took just over two years to complete and the spot is now known as The Montpellier Chapter Hotel.

But first, a little more background on Chapter.

Chapter has been created by Swire, the same people behind the Upper House and East in Hong Kong and The Opposite House in Beijing. The website says Chapter hotels are "locally inspired, in the heart of great English Towns." The Montpellier has been designed with this in mind keeping a lot of its original Victorian features whilst using locally produced bespoke furniture and materials.

The hotel has 61 bedrooms, spa, central courtyard, lounge bar and restaurant, with wine menus displayed on iPads, managed in house by James Partridge formerly of Gordon Ramsey's York & Albany. Each bedroom will have complimentary minibar, free WiFi and iPods. All for the bargain price of £125 a room (approx 200 dollars), sounds good to us.

There are already two more Chapter hotels planned for the UK. A 60-bed property in Exeter due to open in 15 months and another 90-bed in Bristol opening 2013.

Room rates start at £125 and when we checked there were plenty available for that price. We do think they should add more photographs to the website, especially now that the hotel is open. Check see what we mean here.
